

Removing Header From 1st Page

(For Macintosh Users)

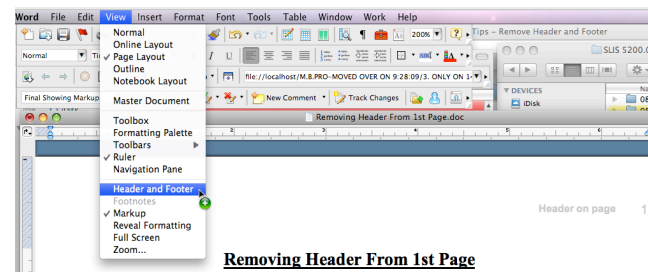

1.

Notice the unwanted header (below & to right) on this document.

2.

Go to “View” and scroll down to “Header and Footer” and release.

3.

Here is what I see.

4.

Click on the icon (Looks like a #1 above). You can toggle between showing what appears, and does not appear, in the header on page one. You can see (below) that the header is removed from page one.

5.

Now (below) the header does appear on page 2.

6.

A shortcut is to double-click inside the header to make the pallet (below) appear.

7.

Caution: Make sure you have everything in the header that you want before you choose “Different First Page.” If you later try to add to your header, you could be toggling one part of it to appear on page one while the other part does not. (You may want this—I don’t know.) If this happens, simply remove everything from the header box. Then put whatever you want in the header box, and then repeat the above process.

I hope this has been helpful to a Mac user.
